NAME _____

1. What is the purpose of the study?
To determine the effect of a new drug on blood pressure.

2. What is the hypothesis?
The new drug will significantly reduce blood pressure compared to the placebo.

3. What are the independent and dependent variables?
Independent variable: Administration of the new drug.
Dependent variable: Blood pressure (measured in mmHg).

4. What is the significance of the study?
The study aims to evaluate the effectiveness and safety of a new drug, which could potentially improve the treatment of hypertension.

5. What are the limitations of the study?
The study is limited by its short duration, small sample size, and the potential for bias in the selection of participants.

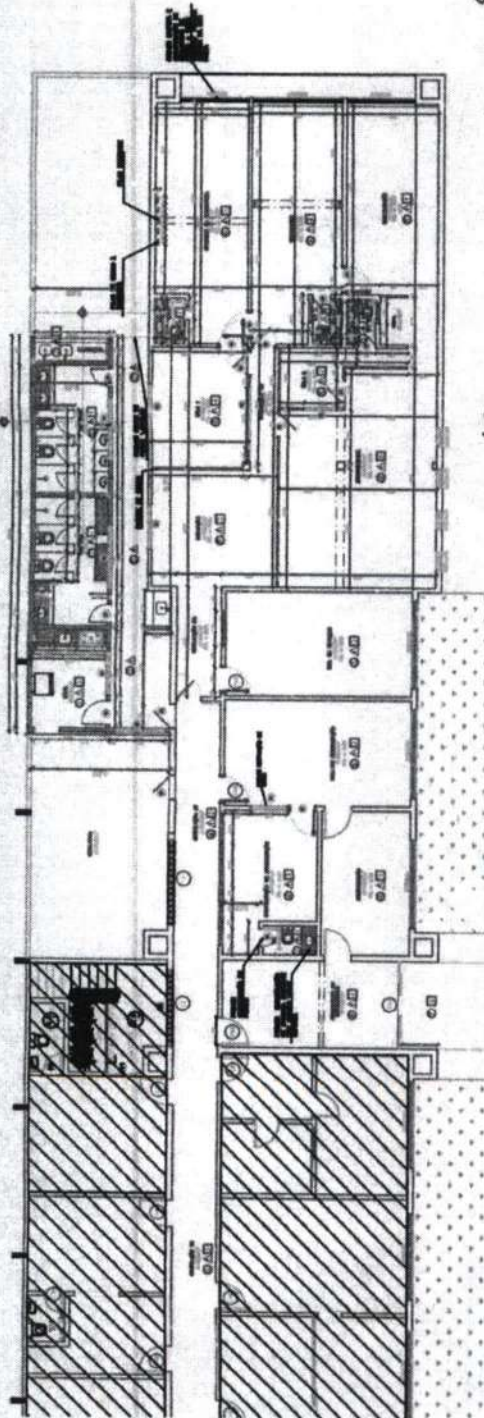

6. What are the conclusions of the study?
The study concludes that the new drug shows promise in reducing blood pressure, but further research is needed to confirm these findings.

7. What are the recommendations for future research?
Future research should include a larger, longer-term study to further evaluate the drug's effectiveness and safety.

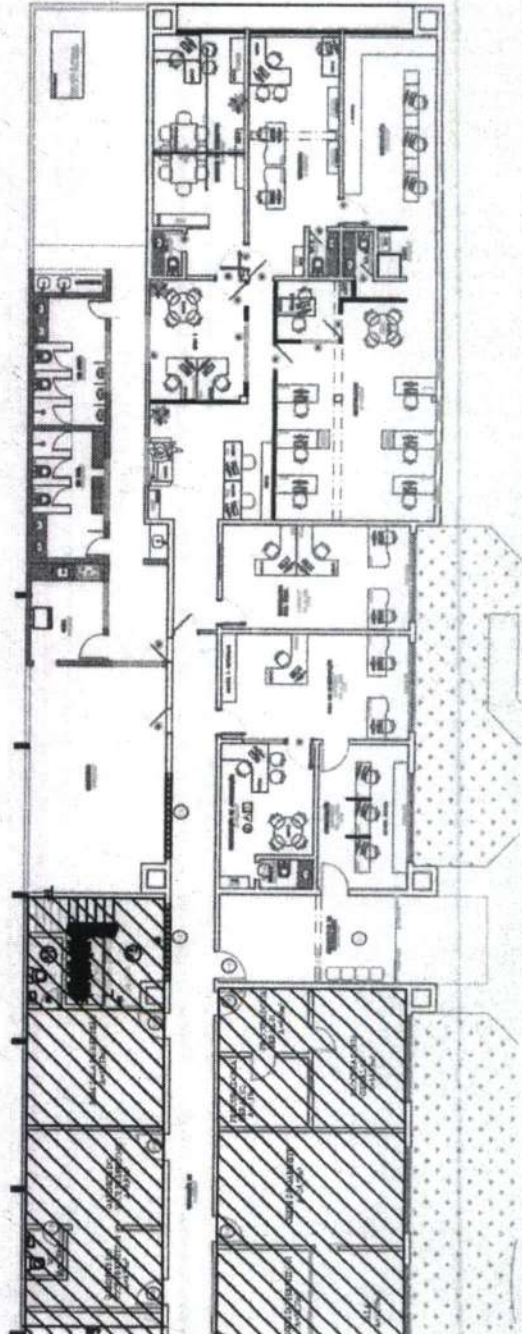

8. What are the ethical considerations of the study?
The study must adhere to ethical guidelines, including informed consent, confidentiality, and the minimization of risks to participants.

9. What are the implications of the study for clinical practice?
If the findings are confirmed, the new drug could be recommended as a treatment option for patients with hypertension.

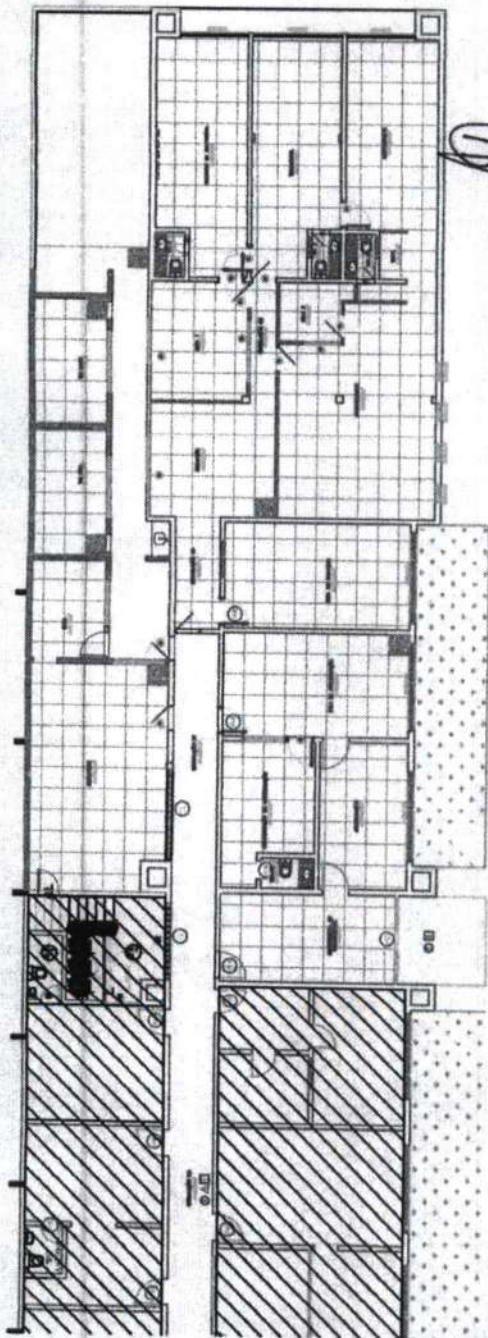

10. What are the potential conflicts of interest?
There is a potential conflict of interest if the researchers or funding sources have a financial stake in the new drug.
